PLACERVILLE, EL DORADO COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 30, 1941

NUMBER 83

BEHIND The scenes in BUSINESS

BY JOHN CRADDOCK

BUSINESS — Taxes, wages and prices dominate the business news, in that order. First two are going up zoomingly, third is being sat on by Office of Price Administration, notably in its "freezing" of steel prices despite wave of wage rises in that industry. Wage increases are general, but largely confined to the manufacturing industries, especially those stirred to new peaks of activities by defense rush. Whether they'll become general depends largely on success of OPA in checking general price rises. Details of bill to provide additional $3,500,000,000 federal revenue for defense proved an eye-opener to John Q. Public on extent of his expected contribution to defense costs. Even if he escapes the income tax—in effect, increased from 4 to 15 per cent on his net taxable income—he'll feel it in new or additional taxes, mostly around 10 per cent, on such things as tobacco, liquor, gasoline, soft drinks, autos, tires, telephone bills, furs, jewelry, photographic apparatus, clocks and watches, phonographs and records, sporting goods, luggage, bowling alleys and billiard tables.

CONSERVATION — Measures to conserve our rubber supply are now being suggested, since Uncle Sam's total rubber reserves on hand add up to about 11 months' supply. It's estimated that defense needs may require 300,000 tons—about half of our total 1940 consumption. Specific conservation measures outlined by Everett G. Holt of the Bureau of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce include: rationing for all but absolutely essential needs; regulation of auto speeds to reduce tire wear; more retreading; more use of reclaimed rubber; and recreation of facilities for adequate production of synthetic rubber. The latter, say industry leaders, offers the only positive insurance in case supplies of natural rubber—97 per cent of which comes from the Far East—were shut off. But meanwhile the industry has had its scientists devising means for prolonging the service life of the rubber we have. Most conspicuous of these is duramin, a combination of age-resisting chemicals which increases durability. Scientists in the B. F. Goodrich laboratories say it acts on rubber to keep it tough and alive, much as vitamins bolster the human system. It's already being used in 1941 passenger and truck tires, and is especially valuable in farm tractor and truck tires because it steps up resistance to sunlight, weather extremes and barnyard acids.

BIT'S O' BUSINESS — Nation's department store sales still running well ahead of 1940; for post-Easter week they were 18 per cent ahead of parallel week year ago; for first quarter of year, 10 per cent. Engineering construction awards likewise—last week were $107,000,000, better than twice the amount of the same week in 1940. National Safety Council gives special award to American Airlines, first air transport company in the world to operate one billion passenger miles with no fatality to passenger or crew member. Nation's air transport system was, in effect "frozen" at its size by order of the Civil Aeronautics Board, which said the national emergency makes it necessary no new air routes be started which would require additional aircraft or personnel; the action followed consultation with the War and Navy Departments. Increase in purchasing power of the farmer is reflected in mail order sales records, which show April sales running 50 per cent ahead of last year—and farm equipment sales, running about 29 per cent ahead. Chrysler delivers the first unit of a fleet of "thousands" of M-3 tanks—28 tonners—and says by late summer they will be rolling off at the rate of 14 per day.

HONOR ROLL — With the certainty that we're going to be much more tax-conscious "from now on," more attention is being centered on means by which state, county and city taxation can be kept from skyrocketing along with the federal "take." A report from the National Consumer Tax Commission indicates that reorganization of administrative machinery, so that states can at least get the most for their tax dollars, is being recognized as a step in the right direction. It says that Montana and Utah have this year been added to the "honor roll" of states which, since 1919, have

SCHOOLS WEEK EXERCISES TONIGHT

Musical At Grammar School; Georgetown Program; 3 More Observances On Thursday

Public Schools Week in El Dorado County sweeps toward a climax tonight with two programs, one at Georgetown and a musicale at the Placerville Grammar School auditorium.

Thursday there will be three programs in the county, an afternoon fashion show and tea at the grammar school; the county-wide observance at the high school in the evening, and, also in the evening, a program at Diamond Springs school in which schools of the vicinity will unite.

Nine schools of the North Side are uniting for the program at Georgetown at the I. O. O. F. hall tonight. The musicale at the grammar school, featuring the school band and glee club under the direction of Miss Laura Ball, is the first evening event in a series of Public Schools Week programs which have been held daily at the school this week.

The county-wide observance on Thursday evening at the high school will take the form of an open house, with the doors of the school open at seven o'clock. Parents and patrons of the school and other friends will be welcome to visit about the building, taking note of the demonstrations and exhibits which will be found in the various classrooms.

The high school band will open a short concert in the auditorium at 8:15 o'clock, signaling the start of the formal program which will have as the chief speaker Captain Carl J. Kistler, of the fire prevention bureau of the Sacramento Fire Department. Captain Kistler was the speaker at the Fathers' and Sons' dinner in Placerville earlier in the year, and his address and demonstrations proved of such interest that the Sacramento Fire Department was asked to send him to Placerville again for Public Schools Week.

The program at Diamond Springs school will have Harry Cridge as

Jas. W. Patton Answers Call

Last Rites On Friday For Placerville Native, Life Long Resident In County

James W. Patton, 78, native of Placerville and a life-long resident of El Dorado County, died early Wednesday at a hospital in Placerville.

The funeral services for Mr. Patton will be held Friday morning at ten o'clock from St. Patrick's church. Interment will be in the family plot in the church yard.

Mr. Patton had not been well for several years but it was only within recent weeks that his illness approached a critical stage. He had been a hospital patient since about a week ago, when the seriousness of his condition became apparent.

Deceased was a son of the late James and Maria Patton, pioneers in Placerville, and attended the public school and the old Academy in this city. In early life he learned the blacksmithing trade in the shop of his father, who was associated with Mike Mayer. As a young man Mr. Patton was active in baseball and other sports in the community.

Subsequently he owned and operated the Tiger Lily ranch, engaging in some blacksmith work there, and later was employed as a smithy in mining. He was also in the restaurant business in Placerville for several years. He retired from active work about twelve years ago and had made his home on the property he had long owned on Main Street, known as the "Patton property."

Mr. Patton had been a member for many years of Placerville Aerie No. 889, F. O. E. He is survived by one brother, Thomas G. Patton, of this city; by two nephews, Thomas J. and L. A. Sigwart, of Oakland, and a niece, the former Miss Mary Allen, of Gilroy.

Bonds to Finance Defense

First of the treasury department's defense financing bonds are examined as they roll off the press in Washington. The bonds range from ten cents to $10,000 in denomination. Left to right, are Harford Powell, director of information of the defense savings staff; Alvin W. Hall, of the Bureau of Engraving and Naomi Domingus, printer's assistant.

DEFENSE SAVINGS BONDS SALE OPENS MAY 1 IN PLACERVILLE

Postmaster Anna Scherrer Explains Units May Be Purchased For $18.75, To Be Worth $25 In Ten Years; Stamps For Small Savings

The United States defense Savings Bonds and Postal Savings Stamps will be placed on sale in the main postoffice at the opening of business on Thursday, May 1, as part of the national effort to make America impregnable.

Postmaster Anna W. Scherrer announced Wednesday that plans are nearly completed for this community along with thousands of others from coast to coast, to do its full part at the opening of the savings program. It is expected that the mayor and other civic leaders will be among the first purchasers of savings bonds and stamps here.

Postmaster General Frank C. Walker, in a letter to Postmasters throughout the country, said that the help of local postmasters would be "a real service to the country." He transmitted the thanks of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau for the help that local postmasters had already given in the sale of U. S. securities, and also Mr. Morgenthau's thanks in advance "for the co-operation which he knows you will give to this new effort."

The new Defense Saving Bond is similar to the familiar "Baby Bond," of which more than five billion dollars worth have been bought by more than two and a half million Americans since 1935.

A Defense Bond may be purchased May 1, or thereafter, for $18.75. In ten years, this bond will be worth $25.00. This is an increase of 33 1-3 per cent, equal to an annual interest of 2.9 per cent, compounded semi-annually. Any time after sixty days from the date of purchase, the bond may be redeemed for cash, in accordance with a table of redemption values printed on the face of the bond.

To spread investments widely among all the people in America, a

SHAKESPEARE MEMBERS LOOK FORWARD TO BUSINESS MEET, HOBBY SHOW

Coming activities of the Shakespeare Club include the regular business meeting for May, on Tuesday, May 6, and the Hobby Show on Friday, May 9.

The Tuesday meeting is, probably the last regular business meeting of the year to be held at the clubhouse since the June meeting usually takes the form of a picnic.

Entry in the Hobby Show, to be held from one o'clock until eight o'clock on Friday, May 9, is open to the public and any residents of the county who would care to exhibit their hobbies are invited to do so. The public is invited to attend the Hobby Show and there is no admission charge. No prizes will be awarded in the show, which is intended more as an exhibit.

The bridge and whist party at the clubhouse Tuesday of this week is reported as a social and financial success. The affair was arranged under the chairmanship of Mrs. Roy G. Strum, assisted by Mrs. Edith Hodapp, Mrs. Colleen Palmer, Mrs. Helen Pierroz, Mrs. Grace Hosking and Mrs. Reba Sinclair.

Clyde Curtis was fishing for stripers in the Sacramento River the first of the week, and reports having good luck.

LONDON BARES EVACUATION OF GREECE

British Report One-Fourth Of Expeditionary Force Failed To Get Away

A band of British Imperials went into German prison camps—and into the pages of history—today as Adolf Hitler's armies swept into the southernmost portion of Greece too late to prevent the evacuation of an estimated 45,000 Allied troops across the Mediterranean.

The British rear guard, with Australian and New Zealand soldiers fighting on the ancient battle-grounds of Greece, lost probably 3,000 dead and wounded. London estimated 15,000 of the 60,000 British troops in Greece had failed to get away. Berlin said 5,000, including one general, already had been taken prisoner on the Peloponnese.

But at least 75 per cent of the B. E. F. was believed by the British to have been carried across the Mediterranean to fight again in Egypt or possibly in Crete, as compared to an estimated 335,000 soldiers evacuated from the beach at Dunkirk.

First definite news of the evacuation operations came from London as the British foreign office issued a statement in which the Greek government was quoted as advising the British on April 21 to withdraw their expeditionary force.

The statement expressed gratitude for British aid but said Greece at last was collapsing because of the German offensive in addition to the war with Italy and said it was in

Mosquito Camp Goes To Caldor

Transfer To Summer Post For Blister Rust Work Is Effective Thursday

Preparations are again under way at CCC Camp Mosquito for the annual move to summer location at Camp Caldor, near Alpine Highway. The move is scheduled to be completed by Thursday, weather permitting.

For the past six months this CCC company has been engaged in the maintenance of Forest Service road systems, telephone lines, campgrounds, fire breaks, etc., in the eradication of the pine beetle, and in the construction of the Bald Mountain road connecting the Pino Grande road with the Bald Mountain Lookout.

With the exception of a 12-man crew to be left at the Georgetown Ranger Station for fire suppression duties, the entire company will move to Camp Caldor where the fight against the Pine Blister Rust will be mounted until the fall frosts cause the leaves to fall from the trees which act as a "host" to the rust spores.

Farm Bureau Survey Assists Sheep And Goat Owners

By ROY M. MARKS

Several meetings were held at which buyers of wool and lambs were invited to be present. As a result of this organized program, three to four cents a pound more was secured for the wool than otherwise would have been the case. The contracts in the pool were made between individual growers and the wool company purchasing the wool. Members of the committee took blank contracts to the growers in their districts. These were signed by the grower and sent to the company. As a further result of this organized effort, buyers offered a fair price for lambs.

As a start on a program of improving and making more uniform the quality of wool and lambs, a Sheepmen's Field Day was held. Professor R. F. Miller and Professor J. F. Wilson, both of the University, and Chet Wing, secretary of the Wool Growers Association, were present and gave very instructive and interesting talks and demonstrations on sheep management in this county and the improving of the production of wool and lambs. It is planned to continue the pooling next season.

LIONS OBSERVE SCHOOLS WEEK

Captain W. H. Voiles Talks On "Education And The Defense Of Democracy"

Placerville Lions held their Public Schools Week meeting Tuesday evening; as usual, at the high school—and as usual, an excellent dinner served by the homemaker department to which the club turned over the fines assessed against members during the evening, for the use of the department.

Guest speaker of the evening was Captain W. H. Voiles, who discussed "Education and the Defense of Democracy." The speaker was presented by Lion Max Baer, entertainment chairman for April.

The captain, retired, is a veteran of the World War and earlier Army training, and is no stranger to many El Dorado County residents, since he operates a fruit ranch just east of Camino. Captain and Mrs. Voiles spend the winter season at Oakland.

The speaker gave an inspiring and instructive discussion of the values of democratic citizenship and the importance of the educational program in training younger citizens to qualify them to continue to appreciate and support the democratic way of life.

More recently, he noted, it has appeared that it is necessary that the people be prepared to demonstrate by deeds as well as by words and thoughts their appreciation of the advantages of the democratic form of government, and to this end schools throughout the nation are developing courses in mechanics, electricity and other vocational subjects for the younger pupils, and in special courses are offering training for adults in many instances.

Lion President A. H. Murray, as well as the program chairman, expressed the club's interest in the subject and their appreciation of the fine presentation brought by the speaker.

Lion Principal B. E. Larson introduced to the club Miss Evelyn Olson, homemaker department head for the school; Miss Alberta Dugan, hostess for the evening, and a group of the members of the homemaker class, who served the dinner in the school cafeteria. The club gave them an appreciative round of applause.

The dinner opened with a fruit cocktail and lettuce and avocado salad. Stuffed pork chop with mashed potatoes and gravy and string beans, was the entree, with hot rolls and jam, coffee, and l-e-m-o-n pie. The Lion president called attention to a district conference of the club to be held at Carson City May 17 and 18 and announced that nomination of delegates to attend the district convention at Los Angeles in June will be open at the next meeting.

Lion J. G. Hearn, chairman of the committee on nomination of officers, reported progress, and Lion Ben Larson reported that the club's golf tournament is moving ahead on schedule.

GEN. JOHNSON LOSES ARMY COMMISSION

War Department Had Given Approval To Renewal Of Appointment, Files Show

WASHINGTON, (UP) — President Roosevelt, it was disclosed today, has refused to renew the army reserve commission of Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, newspaper columnist, administration critic and one-time chief of the NRA.

Correspondence in the case disclosed Mr. Roosevelt, through his secretary and military aide, Maj. Gen. Edwin M. Watson, assured Mr. Johnson that personalities were not involved in the decision.

The commission was not renewed, the letter said, because of Johnson's age, physical condition and the fact that he has not been in active service or training for many years. Johnson will be 59 in August.

Mr. Roosevelt's action overruled a recommendation of the war department that Johnson be reappointed.

Johnson, a West Point Graduate and administrator of the World War draft severed his active army connections in 1919. He subsequently held the rank of Brigadier General in the reserves corps for three terms of five years each. The last expired on April 10.

During his terms in the reserves, it was said, he underwent no training of any sort and had no direct contact with the army.

Despite this fact, the war department waived the question of Johnson's physical fitness and recommended his reappointment.

Draft Board To Increase Pace

Complete Classification Of Registrants Will Be Pressed At 50 Per Day

El Dorado County Selective Service Board revealed Wednesday that in response to orders from the state headquarters, the board will proceed immediately with the complete classification of the list of selective service registrants for this county.

The work, at this time, is slightly over fifty per cent complete, it was indicated.

Questionnaires will go forward to draft registrants at the rate of about fifty a day, it was indicated, and the board will meet almost daily to complete classification of the men as rapidly as the questionnaires are returned.

The board will, it was indicated, set up in the near future a "working pool" of about twenty-five Class A men, who will be available on call, and from which the men will be drawn for induction. Replenishment of the "working pool" will be made from the selective service list as is found necessary.

Board attaches revealed that Dwight Douglas, of Georgetown, had resigned as a board member several weeks ago, and that Guy E. Wentworth had been appointed in his stead, serving with Dr. W. A. Rantz and H. P. Brown.

A Different Suit

Sailor suit in bright blue.

By VERA WINSTON

FRESH, youthful and smart is this midly-like suit very much of the vintage of Spring 1941. It is fashioned of light-weight flannel in bright blue. Typical of the new trend is the shoulder treatment which is soft and sloping. Stitching outlines the sailor collar, the notched peplum and the flared cuffs. The skirt is box-pleated and stitched part way down. A navy blue sailor tie is worn at the neck.

Wall brushes, venetian blind brushes, and brushes used to clean bed springs should be washed after each using.

CHAPTER XXII

I hadn't had a real holiday for about two years when Delphine made me take that trip to Bermuda. I didn't really know where the place was except that we named a skin lotion after it and the Main Line used to go there for Easter. This was August however so everything was pretty folksy. Bermuda had just been discovered as the stenographer's vacation. Delphine bought my ticket and saw me off, when she looked the crowd over she said "Keety, what you better drink this trip is Bronx cocktail." Delphine's always a bit snobbish, but if a woman isn't a snob of some kind she's probably short on a gland. Anyway she had me fixed up in a deck cabin and private bath and a chaise longue reserved for me. I was feeling rotten, one of those heavy summer colds, and it was hot and humid weather.

It wasn't Bronx cocktail, it was Planters Punch. That was new to me then like lots of other things. I didn't even know Bermuda was British. I supposed in a sort of way it was part of Florida. As a matter of fact if you scummed off the tourists it acted a good deal like the cricket club wing of Philadelphia. I recognized the tourist buncle all right because I'd seen them stripped for action in the Catskills. The girls wore shorts up to the timber line and by the time they hit Hamilton they were as burned as grilled chicken. Not even our Caribbean Cream could take care of exposure like that. It was a shock to them when they landed, they found they had to get the shorts down to the knees or else really wear something. Bermuda didn't seem the least bit curious about the Lingerie West Side pelvis. They consoled themselves buying sun helmets.

Delphine knows all the ropes aboard shipping, she must have given the deck steward some big sweetening because while I was flopped out in my chair he came round to know what he could do for me. "I can hear all the lunch bells ringing," I said. "I guess I ought to go down and eat." The steward explained those weren't lunch gongs just the bellboys. I didn't know what they were doing out in the water, unless warning people away from Staten Island, but I was too limp to argue. He said I could take my lunch right there in the chair. I said I would be more conscientious for my first sea voyage, I better go downstairs and eat a square meal, "feed a cold and starve a fever." Then the man in the next chair pipes up. I'd sort of half way noticed him because he was watching things as if he was amused. He was Jewish so I figured he'd probably been cruising before. "You misunderstand that," he says. "It means if you feed a cold you'll have to starve a fever later. Subsequently, With a cold like you got it I'm prescribing Planters Punch, maybe some jelly consommé and toast Melba."

The last thing I felt like it was starting conversations, but the steward thinks that's a good idea and brings it to me on a tray. And Dr. Marcus Eisen, that being who it was in person, didn't make any attempt to carry through. He went off downstairs and got his own lunch and when he came up again I was asleep. By evening I felt better and even got into the diner. I found him at the same table with me. I just supposed maybe the seating was arranged according as the chairs were on deck. Well of course when my wits got sorted out I realized he had fixed it with the maitre d'hotel.

It was fun to be talking to a man just socially. It's like a good spell after a long spell of good nothing. He was smart enough to wasn't in a mood for any formal passes to be thrown at me. I used to use me for his intellect and when he wanted conversation he'd go after some of the deck tennis gals in shorts. I figured I must be a pretty sour old spinster to accept the situation like that, but Cliff Stream air just makes you let things slide. It was hot as my old bedroom under the roof in Frankford, and everything was new to me. I used to use me for a ship and that sort of anxiety in your stomach and salt blue water with big yellow sponges floating. I guess the sail was only two days but it certainly seems like longer.

Of course Wyn got me so conditioned about men's clothes that I hate to see them overdressed. Mark's striped pants, creased like a knife edge, would blackball him at any cricket club, and those black and white yachting shoes with perforated breathing holes were definitely Hollywood. Then you'd notice his hands and forget about the other foolishness. Massage and chiropractic I studied out in Chicago made me observant about hands. When I learned he was working in the Children's Hospital we had lots to talk about. He was curious what kind of line was in and I wouldn't tell him. After a couple of Planters Punches some of his stories were a bit corny, but I'm not too easily frightened that way and a few of Parry Berwin's old Vaudeville Club favorites were even Steven with his. There was a good many ways Mark would look like the answer to a maiden's prayer, if you were that kind of a maiden. What interested me was how he knew his stuff about kids. On the voyage back, two weeks later, he was on the same ship again, it was all of August and we ran into one of those hurricanes. A little boy fell downstairs and broke his collarbone and Mark and I happened to be standing right there. The ship's doctor was busy with trouble, and Mark had the child bandaged up and comfortable before you'd know it. That made a big bit with me.

We were staying different places when we got to Bermuda, and I was having fun with another crowd so I didn't see much of him. I ran into him one day over at Ellow Beach, tanned as brown as coffee. He took me dancing on the hotel terrace one night, he's a good dancer too though he was crowding a bit more than comfortable in Bermuda August. There's a terrace right alongside the water and the colored boatmen drift their little sailing boats up to the edge like butterflies in the moonlight. We went for a sail in the harbor, but I had to explain to him that I starved one fever, successfully and I had no intention to start up another. He was so good humored about it

It was a long time till I saw Mark again. To be honest I guess I forgot his existence except for a snapshot someone took on that boat, his shoes showed up strong. I had plenty to think about. After Pearl Harbor left, and Delphine not in such good health, I found myself practically running the office. It began to look as though anyone in the cosmetic business had no private life at all. I didn't take much time for lunch, and sometimes to get away from perfume I'd stop in at a quick eat on Sixth Avenue and read the paper while I had a sandwich. Everybody there looked so hard-run it cheered me up. I didn't figure out at first what made the place look queer, then I noticed it was because all the men ate with their hats on, and the chewing made their hats ride up and down, you would almost feel seasick if you watched it too long. One day I see a brown plush fedora that demands attention and sure enough it's Mark Eisen. He was so pleased vacation to get good and tough for an extra number of cases when he got back. That was why he always stopped after the third snort, and I liked that in him. We took a picnic to one of those islands where there's an old prison and the cockroaches spring at you as big as mice. Mark was so excited about them he couldn't believe it, he caught one in an olive bottle and took it back to his hotel and dissected it up with a razor blade to see what it was all about.

I knew in a way that I was going to see him again because he could teach me a lot, but I thought it was good for his soul to stall a while and I wouldn't give him any address.

What I liked, he had something to work for that was worth it. I think of that when I go down to visit Mac and Martha and see little Kitty sprawled out asleep in bed. What's wonderful is to have something besides yourself. Maybe these white collar girls, business shrews, Molly calls us, who've been through it and learned what to do without, wouldn't make such bad wives after all. Learning to do without things is the only weapon we got.

It was a long time till I saw Mark again. To be honest I guess I forgot his existence except for a snapshot someone took on that boat, his shoes showed up strong. I had plenty to think about. After Pearl Harbor left, and Delphine not in such good health, I found myself practically running the office. It began to look as though anyone in the cosmetic business had no private life at all. It is a poser for Kitty Foyle when she encounters Wyn's baby—another woman's child! (Ginger Rogers as Kitty)

I was a bit piqued. Of course Mark, successful and bright the way he always got as many of his own kind as he'd care to whistle at. I was someone outside his routine and I had him puzzled. The most I would tell him was I came from Philly, and he'd say Well, it's only a few miles away. I think he believed that hadn't had the advantage of a New York or John Hopkins training. If he'd known I was getting ready to move into my own apartment on Riverside he'd have had the number out of me after two Aquarius cocktails.

He told me a lot about infantile paralysis, how it usually moves from South to North and comes in a kind of annual epidemic mostly late summer and early autumn. Matter of fact he said he was taking this and respectful, and I was feeling solitary, I couldn't very well avoid him walking back as far as the office with me. It seemed to give him a great kick when he learned what line I was in. "And I thought all the time you were taking people's temperatures in Philadelphia." After that my phone bell began to ring on Riverside. Reminds me of the call I got from his nice old mother. She rang up, said Mark talked so much of me and wouldn't I come to their apartment Saturday afternoon, they were going to have bar mitzvah for Mark's kid brother. I said sure; I supposed that was something to eat. Then I found it was a confirmation ceremony and made me practically a member of the family.

"Life With Henry" is an original story resulting from the collaboration of playwright Clifford Goldsmith and scenarist Don Hartman. It continues the comic, sometimes heart-tugging, but always well-meant misadventures of hapless Henry, a typical high school lad with a faculty for getting into difficulties, "because," as he will explain, "of a misunderstanding." Its action takes place in the Aldrich household, roams his home town of Centerville, and goes afield to Chicago for a sequence.

Punishment Is Always A Problem

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

Repeatedly I have urged in this column that the baby should learn the meaning of No as soon as he begins to toddle. I even recommend spanking for this purpose. I have also tried to show how very seldom physical pain is necessary and how it can be abandoned in the very early years. Just as soon as the toddler will stay where he is put for an allotted period, without being held or tied there, you can, and undoubtedly should, cease to spank him. A very effective substitute is for him to have to sit for a definite period as measured by the clock (and always as so determined, and not "till I tell you to get down") in a comfortable chair with a footrest. For a spank to be effective it should follow the forbidden act immediately after its first occurrence, and every time thereafter without exception. Unless these principles can pretty surely be applied to a particular situation spanking better not be chosen. Such acts as thumb-sucking, nail-biting should not be punished by spanking.

The Parent's Error

A mother in one of my parent classes at the university once enquired about her two-year-old who had been spanked for opening the ice box. She said, "The child soon learned not to open it when I was in the kitchen but will still open it while I am in another room or upstairs." Of course, her error was obvious. She would spank the child on finding what had happened. But often he had had long enjoyment at the forbidden pleasure before apprehension; sometimes he had succeeded without being caught at all. The punishment was not immediate, nor without exception. He had not learned to avoid the ice box permanently and automatically, regardless of the mother's presence. Punishment which does not prove effectual enough to deter in your absence, as well as in your presence, is bad punishment.

The mother was advised not to tempt the baby by leaving him exposed to the ice box when he could open it without immediate discomfort; but to be with him always when he was near the ice box so that he would learn so well to avoid it that by and by he would avoid it automatically, even if she were to be away. Accordingly she would take the child with her on leaving the kitchen until such time as the habit of avoidance had been established without any doubt.

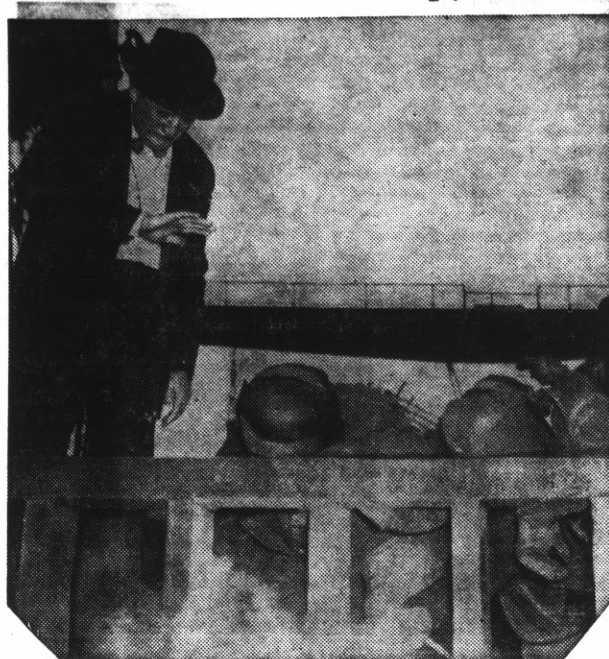

Notice too that I have never advised spanking or any other punishment to get the child to do what you want him to do. Pain prevents. Make pleasant what you want the little child to do, painful only what you want him never to do. Therefore rule out punishment in relation with eating and sleeping habits.

TIMBER LEAGUE ROLLS TONIGHT ON PEAR BOWL DRIVES

The Timber League will occupy the Pear Bowl alleys for their regular weekly series opening at 8 o'clock tonight.

Tuesday night in the Pony Express League, the Coca Colas got off the ice to take two from Cannon Chevrolet; the Gene Morrisons got on their flying horse to take a pair from St. Patricks; and Standard Oil "unsurpassed," left the Lions in a daze with three straight.

In the women's league Monday night, the Blanks claimed a pair from the Hottentots, Pat's Beauties took three from the Tigers, and the Golden Pears dropped three games to the Pirates.

"MIRACLE OF DEFENSE" TEN-MONTH RECORD OF U. S. INDUSTRY

PHILADELPHIA, (UP)—Walter D. Fuller, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, told a regional N. A. M. conference last night that American industry "in 10 months has performed a modern miracle of defense."

In that time, he said, industry absorbed $13,000,000,000 in defense orders and placed 99 per cent of them in production.

By the end of 1942, Fuller predicted, America will be the "unsurpassed arsenal of the world."

DIVORCE CASES RHYME
RENO, (UP)—Best alliteration of the week in the Washoe courthouse occurred when the cases of "Burman vs Burman" and "Herman vs Herman" came up for divorce at the same time.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish by this means publicly to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to the kind friends who offered their sympathy and help on the occasion of the recent death of our dearly beloved wife and mother, Mrs. Mary Caroline Smith Fox. We wish especially to thank the members of the Order of Eastern Star, the Native Daughters, the pall bearers, those who sent the profusion of beautiful floral tributes, and all others who in any way assisted.
